Introduction

Depending on one's viewpoint the statement "Thou art God." is either the deepest Secret of the Mysteries or, on the other hand, the greatest blasphemy possible. On the third hand... when a student asked the Enlightened One, "Is there a God?" the question was answered with a slap. [1]

You are God/goddess
In your full being -- Master!
There is no Other!

02.04.00

Leave that aside. Kant, too, tells us we cannot answer the question. His Prolegomena to Any Future Metaphysics proved that God exists and also proved that God does not exist. Thus we could prove that Thou Art God and that No One is God. Truth is indeterminate, at least for humans.

Hear Me! I AM God:
The Secret is, Thou art God;
Yet, there is no God!
12.12.06

In this essay we assume the truth of Thou art God.

If it is true that you are Godness in the essence of Your Being, the next question is, 'What does that Truth mean for the Way You conduct Your Self?'

Stepping through shadows,
Forming formless void; One a-
Lights and is Godness.

Intentionality

Since You are God You know that what You Intend will manifest. Thus You must be careful what You Intend. You must know what You don't want to know what You do want.

How to determine what You don't want? That is easy. Just note what causes You anxiety and let it go. Embrace its opposite, intend to think of what You want, not what You don't want. Then practice the Art of Intending.

To Dogen
Space-time drops away.
Body and Mind drop away.
Dropping away drops . . .
11.14.17

“How do You 'Intend' in a flawed world? Through expressed choice: by self-talk, by communication, by being in the trance of the intent, through prayer and meditation, ritual and art, singing and dancing.” [2]

My intent becomes
Intentionality through
Emotional Charge.
03.19.18

There are multiple techniques to empower such 'Intentional Intent' including the use of 'light and sound' brain entrainment devices and VR meditation systems. Aim at focusing Intent on what You want.

Intent is what attracts what you want.

The Law of Attraction

Who knows the secret
To attracting highest good?
Look in to find out.

This secret is all
About your inner nature;
How to bring it out.

Secret is "Be Free."
Sit and focus thought and breath;
Attract as you will.

Secret held in mind:
Clear image, out with your breath;
Brings you what you choose.

Attitude

Universal Shema
Hear, Oh Sentients,
Self, Universe, God are One.
I AM speaks this truth
07.04.10

A God does not dwell on negatives, though One must acknowledge the restraints on Human Action, of physical, psychological and economic natures, [3] but that does not preclude focusing intent where You want to be, by not focusing on where You fear being.

The attitude of a God is one of certainty, of magnanimousness, of lovingkindness.

Conclusion

You cannot fail when You are on the Way. Your Quest is to achieve Enlightenment. To do this You practice. You act like a God. You engage in Faring Forth (Remote Viewing). You engage in Ritual, Dance, Poetry. You are a Master of the Word... and at a Word the Worlds transform.

You step through shadows, forming formless Potential. You find Yourself on the right track; on the One True Bifurcation leading to Your Enlightenment.

And what is Enlightenment? Just realizing Your GodSelf.

As is said in Zen, 'Before enlightenment, chop wood, fetch water; after enlightenment, fetch water, chop wood.'

Do You get it?

The Way you can name
Is not the Way you can go,
But just where you've been.
11.11.11

Said Siddhartha: "I together with all beings and the great earth attain the Way!"

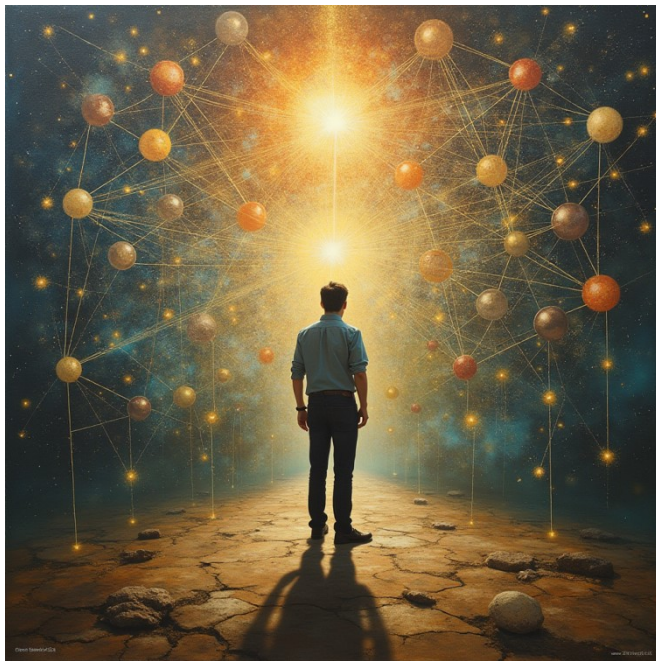

Footnotes

[1] Buddha's 'silent' reply has several interpretations; his meaning, perhaps, is hinted at by his most famous silent sermon, the Flower Sermon on Vulture Peak. He simply held up a flower and smiled. What would you do in return?

"...some versions say that he twirled the flower a bit. 'And the venerable Kashyapa alone broke into a smile' ..." -- <https://www.rzc.org/news/buddha-holds-up-a-flower/>

[3] Mises, Human Action:

<https://www.lifespirit.org/Mises-and-the-Buddha.html>

"Man's freedom to choose and to act is restricted in a threefold way. There are first the physical laws to whose unfeeling absoluteness man must adjust his conduct if he wants to live. There are second the individual's innate constitutional characteristics and dispositions and the operation of environmental factors; we know that they influence both the choice of the ends and that of the means, although our cognizance of the mode of their operation is rather vague. There is finally the regularity of phenomena with regard to the interconnectedness of means and ends, viz., the praxeological law as distinct from the physical and from the physiological law. ... The elucidation and the categorical and formal examination of this third class of laws of the universe is the subject matter of praxeology and its hitherto best-developed branch, economics. ..."
